About

I am an ambitious professional, that is creative, motivated, friendly, fast-learner, and hard worker. With adaptable, transferable skills such as good organisation, time management, team work, problem solving and communication. Passionate about making a difference through design; not only making our cities beautiful, but positively transforming a place to where people want to be.

I have worked on a varying range of projects including large transformative residential developments, street design, pocket parks, and green interventions.

Most recently I worked for Gemeente Amsterdam as a public space designer for the Zuidas area. As well as freelancing for a project in the Nieuwe West area. The projects are at different stages of completion; design strategy, pre-installation and completion.

Previous to this, I worked in London for the multidisciplinary firm John McAslan + Partners, where projects were located in the UK, Russia, and international competition.
